

ROBERT VINCENT

Robert Vincent, the searingly honest Liverpool singer-songwriter who uses a mix of folk, rock, blues and country and he grew up in a house that rang to the sounds of Johnny Cash, The Beatles and Pink Floyd.

In January 2013 Robert released his debut album "Life in Easy Steps". From beginning to end this album takes you through all of life's emotions, good bad and the in between, and you won't feel cheated by this labour of love. 2015 will see the release of a new album.

Highlights:

Press Quotes:

"If you're not moved...there's no hope" 4/5 Rock 2 Reel Magazine

"Vincent mixes Folk, Rock and Country, employing piano, strings and howling pedal steel against a gravel washed Richard Hawley vocal. A young man filled with dreams, regret and shocking talent, giving his all. Now is his time" **** Mojo

"A thoroughly modern piece of country rock" 4/5 Q Magazine

"Liverpoolian troubadour Vincent cracked the Radio 2 playlist around Christmas with the infectious title song from his hard-earned debut album. The long player delivers on that track's promise, with engaging melodies underpinned by trenchant lyrics. Modern-day Merseybeat is alive and well in his hands". Paul Sexton – Sunday Times

No matter the mood you may be experiencing as you sit and wait patiently for the music to start, he will lift your spirits with a voice that oozes sentiment, knowing and kindness. Ian D Hall – Liverpool Acoustic
